MOOSE ON THE LOOSE 2015

We’re pleased to announce the launch of the Moose on the Loose 2015 website at www.mooseontheloose.net.

Booking for all the events is now open, and in 2015 Moose ranges from photography to film, encountering histories, opinions, discoveries, artworks and communities.

With events at the Elephant and Castle, Chelsea, Camberwell, Central London and even on the Kent coast, Moose offers surprise, stimulation and revelations in a bespoke biennale.

The 2015 Moose on the Loose exhibition programme is based around archives of time, place and community, from Paul Lowe’s panoramas of war-torn Bosnia, to the making of Work Stations, Anna Fox’s chronicle of 1980s’ office life. From the archive objects in the Radical Attic to the wandering Museum of Reinvention to the file cards created by the Directory of British Photography Collections in the 1970s, the archive is mediated by contemporary curatorial vision.

As commentators discuss the resonance of the digital, emerging photographers revert to the analogue. Shadows, a symposium created by the London Alternative Photography network in partnership with PARC, will explore this.
